

Maths club report

Another hectic year for the maths club has passed. The maths club again did its best to eradicate 'maths fever' in St. James' School. Many children this year have made mathematics their best friend, from being their worst fear. All this was possible because of the club's dedicated sessions once every fortnight which exposed the students to a part of mathematics which is not in their curriculum.

Many students showed interest in the club activities and benefited from the Vedic maths taught to them. Not only Vedic maths, but many other new and advanced topics were introduced to help them in the long run.

Like every year the maths club organised its annual maths quiz after the puja vacations. The quiz was organised for three categories V-VI, VII-VIII and IX-X. The quizzes thoroughly tested the participants' speed in calculations and mostly out of the box thinking. In the end the deserving teams won namely class VI-A, class VIII-C and class X-B.

The maths club will continue this tradition year after year and keep improving and innovating.
